PRESS RELEASE

OPTIONS PROGRAM WITH OFFER OF "STOCK OPTIONS" TO LEADING EXECUTIVES AND OTHER KEY PERSONS IN INVESTOR AND SAAB-SCANIA

Investor has decided to implement an incentive program by offering "stock options" to some 200 leading managers and other key persons in Investor and Saab-Scania. The proposed program is the first of its type in Sweden.

The program means that Investor will offer the managers concerned a total of 1,840,000 synthetic call options, issued by Investor AB. Members of the Investor and Saab-Scania management groups will each be offered 25,000 options, while other key persons involved will each be offered up to 10,000 options.

In Sweden, there is no counterpart to the possibility that exists in the USA for a company to issue independent options on new share subscriptions in the company. Investor's offer constitutes an alternative to the American model, a possibility that has been opened up through the new legislation on trading with financial instruments and because the earlier requirements of the Financial Supervisory Authority on delivery capacity no longer apply.

The options give the owner the right to receive at a later date a sum calculated on the basis of changes in an index, which is based in turn on the development in the price of B-shares in Investor. Since no underlying shares are required, the option program can be conducted without an external option issuer.

The pricing of the options is wholly in accordance with market conditions. The price of each option is SEK 20, the exercise price SEK 185 and the term 8 years. Other terms are based on market conditions per March 10, 1992.

The options program presented will not lead to any dilution for Investor's shareholders in the form of new shares. Instead, the effect will be that the change in the value of the options is reported as income/loss in Investor at each year end.

The options program has been submitted to the Securities Council.
